

“What Happened this Week in History”

Submitted by Linda Huth

November 12

1936

“Frank T. Hooks Addresses School Kids on Armistice”

“I’ve been coming here to this school for 15 years and haven’t graduated yet,” said Frank T. Hooks to the upper grade students of the Townsend public school on his annual pilgrimage to the school to recall Armistice Day commemorations.

Mr. Hooks, a World War veteran has been invited to the school for many years consecutively to address the students.

This year he chose to tell them the difference in celebrations of the day in different countries, in France, England and America and had with him articles of interest to bring out points in his comparisons. Mr. Hooks is well versed and appealed to his young listeners with bits of humor to hold their interest and attention. He particularly drew attention to the Burial of the Unknown Soldier in these countries.

His address was appropriate and severed as an educational program on the 18th Armistice Day.

“Radersburg News”

Mrs. James Sitton and Lewis Francis were business callers in Townsend Wednesday.

Melvin Bottler, Ray Eslick and Clyde Bottler spent the weekend with home folks.

Mrs. A.M. Kimpton, Mrs. Ted Warren and Mrs. John Bomar were transacting business in Townsend Monday.

Everett Ralls and sons, Jack and Dan, returned home Friday from Cooke City where they have been employed for the past few months.

Mrs. Jesse Knight has gone to Rimini to join her husband where she expects to be gone about two months.

1964

“Mark Rains Wins Savings Bond”

Mark N. Rains is one of three winners in the state of Montana in Standard Oil’s “Name the Pup” contest, it was announced yesterday by A.G. Martin, district manager, Billings, for Standard Oil division of American Oil Company.

Mark, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Garrison Rains of Townsend will receive a $25 U.S. Savings Bond for his winning entry. The name he submitted was “Kozy”.

Standard Oil’s agent, Keith Valentine, of Townsend also will receive a $25 U.S. Savings Bond because the winning entry was submitted to him.

Standard Oil pictured in its advertising material for its home heating oil a pup. The pup symbolized “oil heat...warm friend of the family”. Customers and potential customers were invited to name the pup.

“Crow Creek News”

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sanderson and boys of Townsend visited the Gordon Sandersons Sunday.

David Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williams celebrated his eleventh birthday with a family dinner at home.

“4-H Club Organized”

A good turn-out of youngsters, their parents, junior leaders and other interested adults were at an organizational meeting Thursday evening. The meeting was at the Crow Creek school with the purpose of forming a 4-H Club. George Rauser, assisted by Edward Conrad, is the leader of the group. Mrs. Walter Rauser, assisted by Mrs. Dan Hunsaker and Mrs. Herman Moudree, is the girls' leader. Officers of the new club include: Mary Ann Hensley, president; Jeanie Hunsaker, vice president; Ricky Kitto, secretary; Karen Webb, reporter and Donna Hunsaker, song leader. We wish these youngsters success in their new venture.

“Winston News”

Mrs. Ralph Lokowich picked a lovely bouquet of golden gleam nasturtiums the 10th of November in her flower garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Albright were hosts at an old fashioned Hallowe'en party for the older children in the community. The children arrived in costumes and masks and it was some time before they were able to identify each other. There were dunking for apples and many other amusing forms of entertainment. The merry evening ended with Mrs. Albright serving bountiful refreshments. Guests were Marvin Albright, Lois Herrington, Judy Halm, Ray and Daryl Baum, Cliff Cox, Chrissie Cox and Mary Hagbom.